Causes Commotion But Little Damage

Fire of undetermined origin though believed to have started from a cigarette butt in a waste paper basket, caused considerable commotion in the Macdonald hotel shortly after 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The fire was first noticed by a passenger who saw smoke coming from a window in the front of the building and when then notified the hotel staff, the department manager and butler of the Macdonald staff had the blaze extinguished with hand pumps and a bucket of water.

Damage was confined to curtains, window moulding, carpet, and a radio which was in the guest room where the fire occurred.

Power-Line Break Disrupts Traffic

Contraction of the overhead wire caused by the severe decline in temperature unstrung a power line at 12:30 a.m. Saturday morning, and about an hour later a power line to a nearby town. To disrupt traffic on the transit system for approximately 10 hours.

During the period repair crews were fixing the line, a gas line across the bridge was ruptured and the bridge the gap caused by the line. Full service was restored on the line by 8 a.m.

Rag-Wrapped 400-Pound Spinster Dies in Barricaded, Junk-Filled House

LYNNBROOK, N.Y., Feb. 9.—(AP)—A rag-wrapped 400-pound spinster, one of the region's weirdly dressed women, died yesterday in the barricaded and junk-filled house where she had retired from the world 10 years ago.

A doctor had to climb through a kitchen window to reach the body of Eddie Lee, 45, who apparently was a hermit.

Police then battered down the nailed and bolted rear door of the ramshackle, two-story, firehouse room.

"Mother wanted us to live here," said the surviving sister, who had been cared for the semi-invalid Eddie.

The sisters, their neighbors and the local fire chief had known of the death of their father, a merchant. Their mother, Lila, died about 20 years ago.

Household trash, newspapers and other debris littered the kitchen. The other rooms were crammed with junk and with merchandise—mostly unmarketable items that they had moved from their father's home.

The house was without electricity, gas or water. A kerosene lamp in the kitchen was the only comfort.

A relative estimated the sisters' total worth at $10,000. Police found a bank book showing a balance of $12,000.

The Coming Russian Terror

By Stanislaw Mikolajczyk

Former Prime Minister of Poland and President of the Polish Peasant Party

Special Article No. Three

In this, the final special installment of his story, Stanislaw Mikolajczyk outlines some methods by which the democracies can check Russia in its scheme for world conquest, and warns that the Soviet Union's gigantic menace to private enterprise everywhere is growing.

There are a number of methods by which the democracies and the freedom-minded people in the captive countries can combat Red Russia's tremendous offensive that is aimed at conquest of the world.

THE FIRST OBLIGATION placed on the democracies is to reverse the policy of appeasement in progress at this moment and that the aggressor, the Soviet Union, must be made to pay the price of more than 100,000 human beings in Europe alone and is maintaining its military machine in every country in the world.

After the decision to renege this aggression is taken, full information must be given to the people to keep them aware of Red plans and aims.

The democracies, being invincible as they should be, must guard constantly against one evil fruit of this love—the instinct to fight.

My fear and the fear of the enslaved millions is that if Stalin's strategy is successful, we will raise "We will never remain behind the Iron Curtain of the Stalin-Triple Line; we will not budge." This kind of talk and defiance would breathe a sign of relief and try to forget the countless millions of people who have been enslaved by a totalitarian handful. Acceptable of such a solution is the "Iron Curtain," the ring-around Tehran.

IT IS IMPORTANT in these times, that we make use of the only weapon that can save peace. Russia has cold-bloodedly broken its agreements, signed with the United Nations, and its traitors at Tehran, Yalta and Potsdam; it has perverted the Atlantic Charter; it has violated the pact it has, of course, violated; each agreement it has signed with Poland and the other countries that have become helpless puppets.

These captured states should be freed, to the detriment of the United Nations, to the relief of the parties to the pacts. The United Nations can strengthen its position. In the elimination of the veto privilege in the Security Council, a right which has enabled Hitler to do what he wanted, that body's efforts to mend the chaos of the world... for the Reds know full well that the world is nearly always ready the spectre of Communism.

They know that we will say that if the U.N. Charter is violated against Russia's wishes that Russia will resign from the U.N. This is what they would like to do.

WHAT IF THAT would represent such a tremendous calamity? Russia's outlook on U.N. is as poor as Poland's. The United States, Britain and France have looked hopefully toward that city, Paris.

It is the Communists who are doing their usual efforts to make the world believe that since it sells only to the State, when selling to the world it is not controlled by the market.

From a political stand-point, the United States has the right to demand that the Communists be held responsible for an unending series of provocations and hostilities.

Russia today is a gigantic economic machine, but it is not controlled by private enterprise everywhere.

It has killed, it is in the process of killing, private enterprises from Eastern Germany to Alaska.

Even the most rabid Communists believe that the United States can exist side-by-side with the Capitalist world. The capitalistic world, however, can do little with him.

From a political stand-point, the United States has the right to demand that the Communists be held responsible for an unending series of provocations and hostilities.

WHAT CAN BE DONE fair competition for world markets if Russia is in the picture. Its output has been cut down to a minimum and the countless millions of trained workers and professional men of Russia are now unemployed.

And, unlike any other form of government, in a socialist regime, it does not permit its workers the right to strike or quit their jobs, or to demand a raise in some form of strike.

THE BUSINESSMEN also expressed the view that any business deal with Russia must be sharp and wide.

"In order to make a deal, we must have a clear understanding of the situation," said one of the leading industrialists.

The businessmen agreed that when showing a desire to cooperate to restrain inflation and prevent business costs from soaring further.

'Shaker' Unloads Coal at Top Speed

Vancouver Woman Seeks Cancer Cure

VANCOUVER, Feb. 9—(UPI)—A flight to Australia to gamble on John Braund's reported cure for cancerous growths presented what may be made the most moment of Mrs. Jack Northam's life.

She has experienced four major cancer operations during the last four years.

Mrs. Jack Northam, 30, now is awaiting Dr. Braund's decision on her application for a second operation. She hopes will take her to the modest little home of 72-year-old John Braund in Beverly Hills, Sydney, Australia.

By use of a secret formula invented by Braund, she has been able to remove malignant growths and, by massage, Braund claims he can pull out the cancerous growths from a tumor and completely heal the wound.

Jack Northam, the woman's husband, said, "After 12 operations, she has not been able to see her this site before eye. If necessary, I will sell everything I have in a garage to save her."

Unloading a hopper car of frozen coal ordinarily takes a crew of eight to 10 men 30 minutes. The "Shaker" can do the job in two to five minutes. Called the Hobart Coal Shaker, the unit vibrates with over 1,000 impacts a minute to break up the frozen coal.

Predicted Market Drop Week Prior to Break

By Norman Walker

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(UPI)—The market for stocks and bonds of public companies, it is predicted, will be weak before the recent market break that inflation was near, or had reached, its post-war peak in the United States.

THEY FORECAST a drop in prices and a rise in interest rates. The market had "considerably over stated the inflationary danger."

Results of the business-government meeting were made known by Prentiss L. Conroy and Ernest A. Turner, private business consult ers to the White House.

Stalin makes a point of saying, in his interviews with American leaders, that he has no intention of attacking the West. The communists are not likely to be tricked into believing that since it sells only to the State, when selling to the world it is not controlled by the market.

That a gap in inflation is reached when they could speak. They were not, and hoped to be, in their silence.

Crew Member Killed

Damaged Plane With 69 Aboard Makes Port

BUNNELL, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP)—With one of her crew members killed in a plane which crashed from disaster, an Eastern Airlines four-engine Constellation plane landed safely here Saturday while a great rescue force made ready to go 80 miles to sea to its assistance.

THE PLANE THREW a propeller, which killed Flight Attendant Gloria Paul. Paul worked in the cabin. No one else was injured in flight, but several passengers received injuries when they jumped from the plane after it succumbed to an emergency landing.

The plane was bound from Boston and New York to West Palm Beach.

A brake drum on the right wheel caught fire during the landing. Two tires blew out. The metal fuselage where the propeller fragment pierced through to kill Paul.

One passenger was sent to hospital. She was Mrs. Alice Greenbaum of New York City, who suffered a broken leg when she jumped from the plane after it landed. Several other passengers received minor injuries in jumps.

Capt. William E. Gandy, the pilot, said a loud "whoof" made by air rushing out of the pressurized cabin was the first indication of trouble.

The Big Stick, a 200-mile flight from New York, was held at 11:15 p.m. as soon as he heard the sound. The plane was flying at 22,000 feet.

Capt. Johnson said he radioed immediately that the plane was in trouble and made preparations to abandon ship. The ship was turned towards land and began to descend.

Meanwhile, the plane was under way in the ocean at the time the motor lost the propeller.

Johns and Capt. Dick Kerrill, veteran pilot and round-the-world flyer, were at the controls as the plane descended together. The windows of the plane fogged over and it was difficult to see the ocean.

THE WING FLAP did not work properly because the object which went through the plane had damaged the hydraulic system.

Merrill, who with E.A.L. President Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker recently had come to the United States, was flying as a "check" to observe the details of the accident.

Meanwhile, E.A.L. officials in Miami said that it was believed the propeller had struck the rear cabin, killing the steward, also put the radio out of commission. This would have been the first time there was no radio message to the effect that an emergency landing was planned.

THE BIG AIRLINER, one of the largest and fastest in commercial service, carried 60 listed passengers, 10 crew members, a listed crew of five and Merrill.

Plan New Treaty Of Mutual Aid

EDMONTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Britain and Trans-Jordan have agreed tentatively on a new treaty of mutual aid, the British and defense board, sources said Saturday.

The agreement was reached after two weeks of negotiation.

Trans-Jordan adjourned Palestine, Trans-Jordan and British defense ministers yesterday to explain the treaty to his parliament.

The agreement was said to provide:

Limitation of Britain's right to maintain military bases in Trans-Jordan.

Establishment of Britain's air base which ultimately would be held over to Trans-Jordan.

Maintenance of the Legion, the Middle East's most effective desert fighting force, under Trans-Jordan command. Use of the legion, under command of British officers, and on police duty now in Palestine.

Agreement by Britain to arm and train Trans-Jordan's military forces.

Maybe the Porpoise Ought To Study the Scientist

Pope Asks Ban On Atom Bomb

BY FRANK BRUTTO

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Pope Pius expressed the hope yesterday that the use of atomic energy would be limited to "the use as bright as monkeys and they have as much fun as people."

The scientist who conducted a study has indicated that the porpoise might give the monkey, long regarded as the most intelligent animal, a run for its money.

But they were turned out and say porpoises might even be smarter than people because they are so impossible to hold or control, the scientist found.

He found the porpoise was a "natural scientist" and could jump out to find just how smart a porpoise is.

In his 35-minute address to the Pontifical Academy of Science, he said: "The Immutability of Natural Laws and the Supreme Rule of God in the Works of Creation," he predicted the catastrophe that another war would bring.

Hopes to Marry Fritz Kuhn Soon

FRANKFURT, Feb. 9.—(AP)—A blonde Munich woman of 32 said Saturday she is engaged to be married to Fritz Kuhn, 42, a Nazi who escaped earlier in the week from a German prison. She added:

"They could tell a glance whether a woman was captured and placed in the oceanarium at marine studios in Marineland, Fla., or in the ocean, she would know which spends the greatest part of its life in water."

They could see and hear well.

"They were very nervous when we first met," she said. "We quickly settled down and began enjoying life going so fast as to eat out of a man's hand."

It took them about a month to learn how to jump out of the water to eat food outside its former home.

They also discovered that the porpoise wasn't promiscuous and didn't go in love with any female.

"I found another 'girl' more captivating than she was," he said. "When he went into a group again."

The porpoise, taking physical features into consideration, showed a lot of human traits when he came to courting, wooing and

Rhumba King Cugie Starts to "Swing" When Wife Dances With Dress Designer

BY ROBERT L. GAYSON

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 9.—(AP)—A 19-year-old dancer, glistening sunstrip—seems of many a movie fight—was the arena early yesterday for a brief and wildistic exchange between Band Leader Xavier Cugat and Oleg Cassini, former husband of actress Gina Lollobrigida.

The short—and by all description, short—encounter took place in the lobby of the Mocambo, one of the strip's swankier spots, and continued outside before spectators began to stir.

Cugat, the rhumba king, admitted he was the aggressor.

He had been invited to step across the street to Cirio—where he is not allowed to stay—to inquire about his wife.

"I found her dancing with that dress designer," said Cugat.

Cassini invited Cugat to step outside, he said, not the dress designer, started scuffling with me" in the lobby.

Neutral observers said that each landed one punch outside before the fracas was halted.

The damage, if any, to Cassini was not immediately determined.

Cugat asked whether his wife,

Four fishing vessels, a small trawler, a small boat and the tankers Tidewater and J. L. Haine

the engine room and injured one sailor, but he was rescued by the Coast Guard.

Features was a radio messenger from Skipper Cliff McCreary at the height of the Pacific's fury. When the gale was at its height, McCreary was sinking, he radioed. "I don't mind losing the ship, but hate to lose my wife."

my wife again—happy sailing."

existed in Ireland since ancient times.
